Convicted of "A Small Larceny."

The Herald of Tuesday morning has the following:

A VERY SMALL LARCENY.—The OREGONIAN accuses us of appropriating an article from that paper on the death of Col. M. T. Simmons. All the facts in that connection which the OREGONIAN claims as its own, it borrowed from the Vancouver Register and we used the same, giving due credit to the original source, and adding other facts which were furnished us by an intimate friend of the deceased. We should as soon think of robbing a tomb as of appropriating to our own use any of the ideas of the OREGONIAN.

We agree with the Herald that its larceny is a small one, and from an observation of the course of that paper, we do not wonder that it thinks petty thieving entirely justifiable. But "small" as this matter is, we do not propose to let it stop with the false representations we have quoted above from the Herald; and just to set the "veteran liar" in a pillory, where people can look at him as a falsifier as well as a perpetrator of "petty larcenies," we publish what the Register said about this matter and republish our own remarks which the Herald pirated:

[From the Register:]

DEATH OF COL. M. T. SIMMONS.—By a letter from Olympia, we are informed of the death of Col. Simmons, on Friday last. The Colonel was the first American settler north of the Columbia river, and the facts and incidents of that settlement will furnish a most interesting paper. We have received the news of his death so late (Friday morning) as to render it impossible for us to do more this week than to notice it. Such brave pioneers, "men of destiny" deserve remembrance.

[From the OREGONIAN:]

DEATH OF COL. M. T. SIMMONS.—We find in the Vancouver Register an account of the death of Col. M. T. Simmons, of Washington Territory. Col. Simmons is said to have been the first American settler north of the Columbia river. He was identified with all the enterprises connected with the early settlement of that region, and for many years bore a conspicuous part in the affairs of the Territory. He was at one time largely interested in the unsurpassed water power at Tumwater, at the head of the Bay two miles south of Olympia. Disposing of his interest at that place, he removed to one of the numerous inlets on the west side of the Sound about twenty miles from Olympia, where he engaged in building mills, sawing lumber and clearing a farm in the forest. At this time he was largely interested in various milling enterprises on the Sound. He was also Indian Agent, a position which he held continuously for several years. The decline of the lumber interest on the Sound several years ago caused him many losses, so that lately he has been in somewhat straitened circumstances. Col. Simmons was a generous man, and as one of the most prominent pioneers of the Territory, will long be remembered.

From this it will be seen that we did not "borrow" a single fact from the Register except that Col. Simmons was the first American settler north of the Columbia river. Our remarks on the subject were made from personal knowledge, acquired a dozen years ago. By publishing the extract from the Register, we have fully convicted the Herald of the theft of which we accused it. What larceny it will commit next it is impossible to conjecture. Its editor suggests something about robbing a grave-yard. There are several persons who take satisfaction in knowing that there are no "peaches" to be stolen at this time of year.

Our principal object in taking the pains to publish this expose is to show that the individual in question not only has the meanness to commit what he calls "small larcenies," but that he also has no hesitation in fabricating lies to conceal them.

The British and American Navies.

[From the London Saturday Review, Oct. 12th.]

In their complimentary reception of Admiral Farragut the Board of Admiralty have for once represented the feeling of the country. While the American war was raging, the look of British sympathy which ceased so much bitterness was by the Northern politicians never stood in the way of the heartiest recognition of skill and valor on whichever side it was displayed. The leaning toward the South, which it seems the Americans will never forgive, was of itself but wholly political. The heroism with which the Armies of Lee and Jackson contended against odds that seemed to exclude hope, was almost enough in itself to decide the sympathies of all except those who were strongly committed by political affinities to the cause of the North. The same feeling of admiration for valor and talent gave to Admiral Farragut an exceptional popularity in this country, quite irrespective of the side in which he was fighting. The man who ran the gauntlet of the batteries to which New Orleans vainly trusted for defence, and who, with consummate skill first taught the lesson how an invulnerable iron-clad might be fairly worried to death by a host of feebler enemies, had altogether too much the character of the ideal British sailor to allow the keenest opponent of his cause to remember on which side his feats of bravery were performed. Accordingly, throughout the war, the name of Farragut was scarcely less honored in England than those of Lee, Stuart and Stonewall Jackson. It was creditable to the Admiralty that, laying aside all national jealousy and exceptional caution, they frankly admitted their distinguished visitor to the innermost secrets, if there are any, of our dockyard administration. Whatever the Lords of the Admiralty saw on their inspection, Admiral Farragut was invited to examine; and whatever conclusions he might have drawn as to the comparative merits of the naval policy of England and America, he must have seen much that was new to him after all his experience. To a certain extent the theories of shipbuilding and gunnery respectively in favor of the two countries are determined by the different conditions which circumstances have hitherto enforced upon them. The primary purpose of the American fleet was inland hostilities, while the first consideration with us is and must be ocean fighting. Hence the multitude of American ships built to effect the greatest possible destruction under favoring conditions of wind and sea, and only capable of crossing the waters that separate America from the Old World as a sort of dare-devil feat, almost to be compared with the voyages of the rafts and little craft that have lately managed to make out the trip from New York to England with the object of showing what the reckless bravery of American seamen is capable of attempting. The opposite condition has made it almost an inflexible maxim in our navy that all ships are worthless that cannot be kept for years in commission, roving from port to port over all the navigable oceans of the world.

To those who are capable of looking at more than one side of a question it must be plain enough that each country might learn something from the experience of the other; and if, as is probably the case, Admiral Farragut should think that his own people have there more to teach, we cannot say that we are prepared to question the conclusion. It is quite true that the American navy is deficient in ships able to keep the sea at all times and in all weather, and the creditable fact that the Miantonomah was got across the Atlantic (though not without careful nursing) is very far from proving that their favorite type of low-lying Monitors is really the true pattern for the navy of a first-rate power. Our Warrior must equally have struck an American sailor as wanting in many of the excellencies which the ships of his own country possess. Soundly defended, against hostile shot, with inadequate power of retaliation, typical English iron-clad would unquestionably, under the circumstances, be absolutely at the mercy of an ugly Yankee Monitor. In smooth water the English ship would be crushed by the heavy American guns, while utterly unable to make any effective reply; and in a seaway the Monitor, with her excessively low free-board and consequent steadiness, would be able to work her guns with ease, while ours were plunging their inproof against all weather, and can steam and sail like a yacht.

The Albany Journal says with much force that it hopes that the Copperhead organs will discontinue telling us that Wilkes Booth is still alive, or will stop abusing the authorities for not delivering up his body.

The town contains a population of 2,000, and on the 26th inst., was put in telegraphic communication with all points east and west. There are but thirty-two miles of railroad unfinished west of Cheyenne, which will be built by Nov. 10.

Scratching.

[From the San Francisco Chronicle.]

It seems to be a fact that Republicans as a class are an obstinate, pig-headed set who cannot always be persuaded, argued, scolded, dragooned into "voting the regular ticket," and who will "scratch" obnoxious candidates, even at the risk of defeating their party. This is unfortunate, and so long as they continue to exhibit this refractory spirit in advance of party discipline and the orders issued by their political leaders, they never can reasonably expect to keep in power, except just so long as they administer the government well and wisely, and make good nominations. Hence, the Republicans have "a hard row to hoe" in order to retain power after they have got it. They have to be all the time on their good behavior—which is tedious. There is no let up for them. When they have carried an election they cannot rest upon their arms and enjoy the fruits of victory. They must be careful about the distribution of patronage, or else the wrong-headed, self-willed members of the party will commence fault-finding. Another and disadvantage which they labor under is this, that a large portion of the ablest and most influential journals in sympathy with Republican views are not faithful and docile in their allegiance to the party, and obstinately refuse to support men or measures (even when sanctioned by "regular conventions") that they do not approve. These independent papers recognize a higher standard of right than party authority, and are in fact, talented to a greater or less extent with the "higher law" heresy. They delight to style themselves the "independent press," and they have been known to come out on the eve of an election and go right against "regular nominations" in obedience to some ethical scruple of conscience. The New York Tribune is a journal of that type. It is ordinarily classed as "Republican," but it can't be relied upon. Just before the last New York election the impracticable Greeley came out and advised his Republican readers mercilessly to scratch their tickets simply because the convention had nominated a lot of "corruptionists," as the white-coated theorist and philosopher was pleased to designate them, saying that it was better to lose the election and the spoils) than to elect bad men, and that as long as Democracy is better than worse Republicanism. What can be expected of a party that sees such a sentimental gully as this? What attractions in such a party can it hold forth to politicians, lobbyists, wire-workers and manipulators to enlist in its ranks? If things go on at this rate much longer, and secessionists of whipping the disorganizers of the "independent press" into the traces is not speedily discovered, it will actually become necessary for Republican conventions to make unobjectionable nominations!

IS THE COMMERCIAL SUPREMACY OF NEW YORK IN DANGER?—The Chicago Tribune says to have a poor opinion of the commercial position of New York city. It says:

The preachers tell us that we know not what a day may bring forth. Accepting that as a general truth, we can see that the position of New York, in the way of affording good harbors for ocean going vessels, a short line of transit between the principal towns of the West and the seaboard—a way of transit comparatively uninterrupted by the frosts which afflict a higher latitude—is not as solid as New Yorkers would have us believe. The shortest line from Chicago—the collecting market of the West—to tide-water, points to the Susquehanna river, below Richmond, in Virginia. If Virginia is wise she will see to it that a large share of the produce which now endures the infliction of the established tolls of the New York canals, is diverted from the accustomed channels to her rivers, whence it will seek a European market. To accomplish this she must construct her great freight railroads from City Point to the places in Ohio where both St. Louis and Chicago can strike them; and then, with low freights and uninterrupted winter navigation, she may hope for that wealth which the commerce of the West will pour into her lap.

GENERALS RAWLINS AND DODGE.—The correspondent who represented the Chicago Tribune during the late editorial excursion to the Rocky Mountains thus mentioned the reception given by the party to General Rawlins of Gen. Grant's staff, and General G. M. Dodge:

At a station a few miles back we met an outward bound train, on board of which were General Dodge, Chief Engineer of the road, and General Rawlins, chief of staff to General Grant, who had just returned from Salt Lake City. Our party turned out and cheered the distinguished travelers, the band played a national air. The General's were introduced, and made a few remarks. General Dodge said that there was a time when it was necessary to talk for the Union Pacific Railroad; that time had passed, and it could now speak for itself. It is built nearly five hundred miles already, and is rapidly pushing on over the Rocky Mountains.

THE SOUTH.—The New York Tribune of October 29th says:

A correspondent writes us from Georgia: "You would hardly believe were I to tell you the absurd hopes excited in the Southern bosom by the recent Democratic successes. One result the planters regard as certain: 'We shall be paid for our niggers,' they say, 'in less than three years.' I know of several planters who have already made out all the necessary papers, with descriptions, affidavits, etc., to support their claims." The Copperhead programme grows more and more charming every day. No more whisky tax, no more excise, no more paying debts, but full payment of all the damages suffered by the South, including cotton claims, and in the end, we suppose the rebel debts.

The best oil well in Pennsylvania now yields only two hundred and fifty barrels a day, and insists on being pumped at that. No more of that liberality which once prompted the oil wells to flow without pumping.

The Recent Meteoric Display.

The predictions of astronomers in regard to the periodic nature of the great "meteoric showers," as they are called, now to be quite fully established. There is evidently a point in the heavens, it is said by our earth and a large body of meteorites, in periods of from thirty-three to thirty-four years.

Various theories have been promulgated to account for the phenomena of meteoric showers; but that of Olmsted is the only one that has met with any considerable favor. It assumes, in brief, the existence in the planetary regions, myriads of small bodies, independently of the planets, which exists in the form of a circulate about the sun, generally in a direction opposite to the planets, and that some of these rotate in the ellipse, and are frequently encountered by the earth in its regular course. It has been asserted many objections to this theory, and many facts in regard to meteoric appearances which it is difficult to reconcile; but that as yet we have but little knowledge with regard to the nature of such bodies. Certain it is that they exist at great altitudes above the earth, many with a measurable velocity, and pass around the sun in orbits which are more or less eccentric, and which are subject to the attraction of the planets, and that the origin to the meteoric system of Olmsted is the only one that has met with any considerable favor, which is worthy of the name of a theory, or that explains the conditions of the phenomena of the August and November showers.

The display on Tuesday night, the 14th inst., was almost unparalleled in character, and had not been for the presence of a full moon, would have been one of unusual brilliancy. The meteors which appeared were chiefly of the first magnitude, and were as numerous as in 1833.

The light of the display was between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock. The air was highly charged with meteors, and they were visible, it is said, at the rate of 1,000 per minute. According to the calculations of Dr. Harkness it is anticipated that during that period a point about five degrees east of the zenith, as their center of radiation, will be noticed by him as the general direction of their appearance in 1868. The meteors were unusually slow, and many left trains behind them which remained visible for several minutes.

If things go on at this rate much longer, and secessionists of whipping the disorganizers of the "independent press" into the traces is not speedily discovered, it will actually become necessary for Republican conventions to make unobjectionable nominations!

The Proposition for a Branch Railroad.

There are several reasons, in our judgement, why the effort to build a railroad from Portland to intersect the Central Pacific on the Humboldt should engage the attention and secure the favor of the people of Oregon The feasibility of the project, compared with other proposed schemes to bring us into railroad communication with the East, is one of its most striking features. And if a railroad to California is sought, this will answer the double purpose of giving us communication with that State and uniting us at the same time with the Eastern side of the continent Moreover it will hasten the building of a road through this valley and stimulate every industry of the western portion of the State to the greatest energy and activity. As the project is one of no inconsiderable magnitude, and as the results which might be expected to flow from it would be correspondingly great, it might be confidently anticipated that, from the moment of its commencement, the State would feel its influence in a very marked degree It would give a confidence in the future of the State which no railroad terminating in this valley could give; and a prospect that within three years or by the time the railroad is completed to California, we should be connected with the great overland trunk and pr pa ed to receive as many benefits from it as California will obtain, would turn the attention of the people of the State in this direction and build up our State in wealth and population with unexampled rapidity. It would at the immediate [illegible] of that large area of valuable land in the southern portion of the State, it would adapt for permanent occupation by a farming and mining population a section of country rich in the elements of wealth, and would quickly solve the "Indian question" which has so long been a matter of annoyance and expense to the State and the General Government. The road would traverse [illegible] the whole extent of the State in a diagonal direction, would pass directly through the richest portions and finally, would give us communication with a [illegible] tal line which is now in process of building, and which will in all probability be finished by 1870, or long before any other line across the continent could be advanced towards completion. Obviously the first and quickest method of establishing a railroad communication with the East will be to prosecute this enterprise. The distance from Portland to the proposed point of intersection is no greater than from San Francisco to the same point; while the obstacles to be overcome on this route are infinitely less formidable than those on the Central Pacific Railroad route to the Humboldt. This circumstance need not interfere in any manner with the Northern Pacific Railroad. If the aid granted from the general government should be secured that road can be and will be built. The scheme will be sufficiently strong to stand on its own foundation, and no rivalry can affect it. At the same time it must be manifest that the building of the [illegible] road is not postponed. It may be a year or two, or it may be [illegible]. But in the meantime [illegible] pushed [illegible] from the start they have got it in their power that railroad company which will be certain to be by the sooner by some years than by any [illegible]. If, then, the advantages of railroad communication with the East should be drawn to this proposed branch of the Central Pacific, and the facility and prosperity and progress which would attend it, be sufficient to take hold of it at once, it is evident that it might be completed, and that this would be much the quickest method of having long a continuous line of railroad [illegible] as well as of establishing a [illegible] with the Atlantic side [illegible] of the Pacific railroad routes we do not see [illegible] to any which would be more advantageous. Every person, we suppose, will concede that any road [illegible] with the East would prove of [illegible] benefit to the State

Democratic Power.—In the La Crosse (Wis.) Democrat of October 26th, is published an original [illegible] of Caesar, Brutus—John Wilkes Booth, of whom it says, in its conclusion [illegible]

His faith [illegible] of the same Or [illegible] of the
and the cause that now [illegible] with shame,
Is there [illegible] they have [illegible]
His death [illegible] the wood of a land [illegible] the best [illegible] to stand [illegible] shall feel
[illegible] but [illegible] its hero.
[illegible] the sword
[illegible] to sleep in the arm of the deep
[illegible] his fame was as free as this air

This is the kind whose [illegible] by hundreds of Copperheads in Ohio, and read by [illegible] visible light. Is the party any [illegible] than its [illegible]

The Next Result.—Jesse D. Bright, the man who was expelled from the Senate for treason in 1861, [illegible] made a speech in Kentucky [illegible] the new [illegible], declaring "that the war was [illegible] the Congress was an unconstitutional [illegible] debt is not binding, slavery is not abolished, states must be restored to their masters, [illegible] during the war, and they must be governed by the principles of State rights." And he closes by [illegible] to pay a dollar of [illegible] to the National Government." It requires no [illegible] that these positions are logically [illegible] from the position which the Democratic [illegible] flag! [illegible]

Just prior to the November elections, Randall, Johnson's Postmaster General, addressed a letter to the people of Wisconsin informing them that he never could vote for any [illegible] holding an office under the Republican platform of that State, as that platform demanded the [illegible] of the President. As the impeachment of Johnson would send Randall's head to the block, it can easily be seen why he [illegible] trouble about the Republican platform of his State. But in spite of Randall's efforts the [illegible] carried Wisconsin on that platform by a hand [illegible] majority.

Texas.—J. W. Throckmorton, late Rebel Governor of Texas, deposed by Gen Sheridan, has written a letter violently [illegible] the reconstruction plan of Congress, and advising the whites of that State to vote against holding a Constitutional Convention.

J Dan E Coon, formerly an officer of the Second Iowa Cavalry Regiment, was elected to the Alabama State Convention from the Selma district by 5,000 majority.

Salem Items.—From the Record of the 25th we get the following:

The Avenue fence in the [illegible] Street, which may [illegible] from what our town will not wonder what that bleak [illegible] means, and what is to be done with it. The most ruinous that surrounds it tells the story. Now it [illegible] for Marion county and the State of Oregon to own [illegible] and [illegible] the blocks donated to the Court House and the future capitol, and if so to be [illegible] that the next [illegible] of Representatives will not be [illegible] with R[illegible]heim on the brain, as the last unfortunately was, but will find time to attend to its legitimate duties. A bill to appropriate $1,000 to be used to [illegible] and [illegible] Capitol Square, [illegible] the Senate last fall, but the House let it go by default.

The [illegible] of the new ferry boat on Saturday was quite a [illegible]. The [illegible] was pleasant, several hundred were in attendance, and the children muttered in quite a joyous sound. The greater part of the juveniles took [illegible], and when the minute arrived, at precisely 3 o'clock the ropes were cut, and the boat slid swiftly and [illegible] down the ways, and with a splurge and dash was [illegible] in the eddy. It was worth something to hear the [illegible] of young ones cheer then, and the whole affair was over quicker than you can read this item.

The [illegible] of the oil mill was started on Saturday, and [illegible] was found to work well. As soon as the large [illegible] arrives in which the meal is to be put, and after it is [illegible], and is in its place, the Company will [illegible] the manufacture of linseed oil.

LATE EASTERN NEWS

New York, Nov 2.—The Times special says Secretary Stanton had fixed upon Vermont first, when the Southern railroads should pay their indebtedness. Application has been made to General Grant to extend the time and he has decided that no more extensions shall be granted

New York Nov 4.—The New York Herald's special says The following general orders were issued by General Schofield commanding the first Military District

Headquarters 1st Military District of Virginia Richmond Nov 2, 1867

At the election held in the State of Virginia on 22d of October, 1864 and the full wing days for delegates to the State Convention and to take the sense of the registered voters upon the question whether such convention should be held for the purpose [illegible] a new civil government for the State [illegible] 109,420 votes were cast upon the question of holding the Convention, of which number 105,332 were cast for the Convention, and 61,587 against the Convention The whole number of votes cast upon that question being a majority of the whole number of registered voters in the State and the number of votes cast for the Convention being a majority of all the votes cast upon that question, the Convention will be held as provided by the act of Congress of March 23d 1867 The Hall of the House of Delegates in the city of Richmond at 12 o'clock m and on Tuesday, the 3d day of December 1867 is designated as the place and time for the meeting of the different delegates elected in different cities, counties, and districts of the State who are notified to meet in Convention at the time and place above specified

John Minor Botts takes a desponding view of the political situation in Virginia He thinks the whites are disposed to persecute the blacks for voting for the Convention while the blacks are organizing for the purpose of refusing to work for the whites whom labor is needed

Atlanta Nov 2.—Every county in the State yet heard from, wherein the whites predominate, gives a large majority for the Convention The Republicans have carried the State. Atlanta gives two thousand Republican majority

New York, Nov 3.—Mention has heretofore been made of the Belgian counterfeiters Col Wood, of the secret service division with his force, has continued on their track Two of the gang have been secured and are now in jail in Toronto, Canada, awaiting an order for transfer to Brooklyn, N Y, according to the extradition treaty

Cashard, one of the same gang, is now in jail in Brooklyn

Col Wood has secured all the [illegible], stones, plates, dies, etc, of the gang, including plates of gold bearing coupons There are over fifty of these stones with improved [illegible] of counterfeit plates on them from five cent notes to one thousand dollar notes, One of the gang attempted to erase the impression of plates on stones, after his partners were arrested, by means of sand and water, but the attempt proved a failure, for Col Wood expects to again restore the face of the impression by chemical process

New York, Oct. 31.—The census of immigration shows that during the year ending October 30th, 1867 268,423 immigrants arrived at this port

FROM WALLA WALLA

From the Statesman of the 22d we obtain the following

A farmer named J F Silverthorne, living near the foot of the mountains, died very suddenly yesterday (Thursday) morning. Deceased was in town on Wednesday, at which time he appeared to be in good health On Thursday morning he got up as usual, but in a short time complained of being unwell, and in less than two hours was a corpse We had a very slight acquaintance with deceased, but those who know him speak of him as a good citizen and a worthy man He leaves a wife and several small children to mourn their loss We have been unable to obtain particulars as to the early history of deceased, but learn that he was between 35 and 40 years of age.

The workmen at the Walla Walla Foundry are now engaged in making a pump which may be fairly characterized as of giant proportions The main cylinder is five feet long; the chamber six teen inches in diameter, and the whole pump of a capacity to raise 1,200 gallons a minute, or 72,000 gallons an hour Its capacity will be better understood when we state that it would readily raise water to supply a city of 200,000 inhabitants. This pump is being manufactured for a mining company, and is intended to enable them to work some rich bars on the Columbia river, which have heretofore been allowed to remain idle on account of the difficulty ter This pump will give them all the water they require, and if necessary will force it to an elevation of 500 feet. The mines are on the Columbia, above Priest Rapids, and are the diggings to which reference was made some months since

A lynx, measuring seven feet in length, and two and a half feet high, was killed on Mr Joseph Hancock's farm, on last Saturday morning. For some time past it had been making sad havoc among the pigs and chickens in that neighborhood, and his death is looked upon, in that settlement, as a fortunate circumstance.

Inflating the Currency.—The New Orleans Crescent, a paper whose editor was a Confederate officer in the rebellion and has that good reason in addition for his present Democracy, emphatically protests in the name of the Democratic party against the injustice and dishonesty of inflating the currency to pay the national debt, in the manner contemplated by the Democratic repudiation scheme. From this paper we take the following.

"There is nothing to be gained by political leaders anywhere in attempting to secure party success by advocating a course prejudicial to public credit. The people of the United States will not stand any such suicidal measures, and the party or the men upholding them will be laid away upon the shelf.

"The laboring classes see in the inflation doctrine a plan for reducing the value of the money they receive as wages. Creditors see in it an opportunity offered for debtors to discharge their obligations by paying them in a worthless shinplaster issue. Business men see in it a derangement of commercial values and a disorganization of trade, certain to bring ultimate and great disaster upon mercantile affairs. Capitalists and all persons who have saved anything in paper money, see in the expansion project the wiping out of the value of their accumulations. Statesmen see in its disregard of national faith an assurance that if such a policy should be adopted by Congress, the Government could never obtain at any future time, the least assistance in the way of loans on occasions of need. Politicians of shrewdness know that if any party should force such a course upon the country its inevitable results would condemn the leaders of that party to perpetual popular reprobation, as soon as the effects of inflation should be fully experienced The inflation policy, which is but another expression for repudiation, is contrary to common sense, and the common sense of the American people will utterly repudiate all repudiation."

Mill for South Boise.—The Idaho Statesman of the 16th has the following

A recent letter from Atlanta says "Mat. Graham has already let the contract for getting out all the timbers for his mill He was unable to get teams to freight his machinery in this fall, so it remains stored at Umatilla Mat is an energetic man, and has done more than any one else for this district There is no such thing as a failure with him He has one of the finest 20 stamp mills ever turned out on the coast, with fourteen Varney pans and eight settlers, and a large quantity of English fire-brick for furnaces He has some valuable mines in this district, and intends running two shifts of hands all winter The owners of the Gray Eagle have made arrangements with some San Francisco man for the erection of a mill on their mine next year The Gray Eagle is a splendid mine and is well opened."

An Eastern paper gives the following account of the son of the Italian hero, Garibaldi

Menotti Garibaldi, to whom his father Guiseppe Garibaldi, intrusted the authority of Generalissimo of the forces operating against Rome, was born in Uruguay, about the year 1839, and is therefore twenty-eight years old His mother was a South American lady, of great energy of character, and the friend and companion of her husband in all his wanderings She died in 1849, in consequence of fatigue undergone during the exciting and disastrous march of her husband from San Marino to Cesenatico. The young Garibaldi was left with his grandmother until his father, having lived on Staten Island, New York, returned to Nice. In the war of 1866, between Italy and Austria, he was with his father in the Cacciatori delle Alpi, in the various battles in which that famous corps was engaged during the war

Coos County Items.—From David Morse, of Empire City, we have the following, under date of Nov 18th

Three brigs, one bark, and one schooner are in port loading for San Francisco—three with lumber and two with coal

H H Loce's new steam tug boat will be ready for launching in about three weeks.

The stock fifty thousand dollars) in the Coose Bay and Roseburg Wagon Road has been all taken by parties at Myrtle and Coos Bay

Last week a man by the name of D W Thomas was severely cut with a knife by a man by the name of C Cox. Cox had an examination and has been bound over to appear at the circuit court in May next The jail now contains four persons bound over to said court Application has been made to the District Judge for a special term of court.

The Coroner's jury on the Dean Richmond disaster has rendered a verdict laying the blame on the officers of the Vanderbilt. The document reads as follows: "Collision caused by culpable negligence or willful design on the part of the officers of the Vanderbilt"

There's our grandmother, says our contemporary, a striking instance why women should vote. She's paid taxes for the last ten years, and now declares she won't stand it any longer—she'll either vote or kill the dog!

An American Ship Sunk

Victoria Nov 26.—The American ship Gem of the Ocean, from San Francisco for Bellingham Bay struck a rock near Orcas Island 20 miles from there and sunk in four fathoms of water All hands saved.

Workmen excavating a cellar in Monroe County, Indiana a few days ago came upon an interesting memento of the forgotten race The workmen struck what at first appeared to be a solid ledge of rock and, sitting down to rest one of their number began idly to pick at an apparent fissure when a block of stone, nearly two feet square disappeared with a dull thump The men set eagerly to work, and removing the bottom of the pit disclosed a chamber with six foot ceiling and eighteen by twenty five feet within the walls, which are of solid, neatly seamed stone work Ranged in rows, on rudely constructed platforms, were skeletons, each with tomahawk and arrow heads at their sides, ear rings and bracelets of solid silver lying where they dropped, and piles of what appeared to have been furs, in the center of the platform, each pile crumbling to dust as as soon as exposed to light A number of tools made of copper, and hardened equal to the best cast steel, were also unearthed, and fresh discoveries are constantly being made

Democratic Corruption.—The Congressional Committee on Elections, which has been investigating the alleged frauds in the election of Wm H Barnum (Democrat), of Connecticut has had several witnesses before it who swore positively that Mr Barnum personally offered them money in sums of $50 and $100, to vote for him The most important witnesses could not be found and it is thought they were hired to keep out of the The investigation has not yet been concluded

The Copperhead papers are disposed to make up in blackguard garrulity what they lack in talent and force Saturday's Herald contains eleven editorials on the Oregonian, and two about some thing else It would seem that selling whisky to boosy Diggers and editing a Democratic paper are not pursuits which necessarily force the operator very high on the intellectual or social scale.—Unionist

THE PRODUCE OF THE COLUMBIA VALLEY.—The Walla Walla ...pondent of the Walla Walla Statesman writes under date Nov. 18th, several interesting facts in relation to the produce yield of the Columbia valley and the prospective facilities for getting it to this market. As all such matters are of deep interest to this valley, we furnish the following quotations from the latter:

The weather is still dark, damp, calm and foggy, but none the less rapidly these difficulties, several pack trains have left here during the last week for western Montana. Large quantities of goods continue to arrive from below by each steamer, and full cargoes of flour and grain go down by each boat.

On my return home, I noticed quite a large quantity of flour and grain stored here for shipment below, and from the amount taken by each boat I was under the impression that quite a large quantity would be left over after the season closed. By the request of the shippers of flour and grain, I immediately wrote to the President of the O. S. N. Company the condition of affairs at this point. Mr. Reed, Vice President, came up, and was here on Wednesday last. He assured me the Company would do all they could to clear their warehouses of freights, and that in case they could not do so, that the Company would make no charge for storage for what might remain over until spring. He said that when the main warehouse was filled, they would have to store the Valley A. [illegible] (down) in their upper warehouse, from which it would cost the shippers just what the Company had to pay—66 cents per ton for hauling to the boat. Mr. Reed further assured me, that the Company would not raise the price of freight from Wallula to Portland, but that it ... as 25 per ton, as now, which is the same price charged by the P. T. Company from Albany, on the Willamette, to Portland.

This is certainly a liberal proposition on the part of the O. S. N. Company, and should be embraced by the people of Walla Walla Valley. They now have an opportunity to clear the Valley of its surplus products. I am assured by mill men of the Valley that there is still the enormous amount of 2,000 tons of flour yet to come down, to say nothing about [illegible] barley and oats of which there are [illegible] tons more. The steamer is now making way, each trip, about 80 tons, and there is still on hand here 1,400 bbls of flour and 60 tons of grain, with [illegible] steadily arriving here.

A CHASE AND A RIVER.—Bro. Brown of the Register, last week delighted himself with several friendly allusions to Reed and the "creek" on whose banks it is situated, dwelling with complacent emphasis on the facts that recently a bark and a steamer got fast on a bar in the "creek" and heavily laden with merchandise for Portland; the other still more heavily loaded with produce from Portland. The inference is a comparison between the "creek" which runs by the city of Portland and the river on whose [illegible] village of Vancouver, to the disparagement of the latter. Now, we are willing to grant the Register that the Columbia furnishes water [illegible] for all the boats and steamships at once, and that the "creek" is often difficult of navigation; but notwithstanding these two opposing facts, the steamers and barks continually ascend and descend the "creek," don't they, Bro. Brown? And, don't they always come loaded down and ... loaded down? They don't go up the Columbia to get cheap wood, though, water is so plentiful! What's the matter! Isn't there something up the stairs, low-er, to induce the steamships and barks to [illegible]? Is there anything up the deep Columbia of that sort? If so, how much? To the [illegible] years, Bro. Brown, isn't the "creek" a little the bigger thing of the two?

THANKSGIVING DAY.—Yesterday the little [illegible] on First street, standing on the property ... Millard and Van Schuyver, ... down to give place to a larger structure to be used as a bank. After the rubbish had been taken from the [illegible], not by any ... ceremonies of public red men, commenced prodding around in the dirt with a stick in search of stray coins which might [illegible] from customer [illegible] and ignore the [illegible] the days of the Kane in the days of old long ago. An [illegible] was [illegible] by the discovery of a slick quarter, [illegible] the eyes of the aboriginal nation stood out [illegible] of [illegible] and chuckling an emphatic "by-scotch," he went on with his prospecting, the happiest wreath in the city.

[illegible] Tualatin, Q. A. T., has just received notice from Washington of the establishment of the following ... and appointment of postmasters, and the [illegible] in A. T. having been forwarded: A new Post-office has been established at Cayuse, ... county, and John S. White appointed Postmaster. A new Post-office has been established at Clear Creek, ... county, which Oliver P. Matteson has been ... Postmaster.

The Oregon Territory ... new Post-office has been established at Olequa, Cowlitz county, at which William Pumphrey has been appointed Postmaster. A new Post-office has been established at [illegible], Cowlitz ..., and Wm. Chevrier appointed Postmaster. Chevrier's Prairie has been ... Post-master at Monticello, Cowlitz county.

A CONVENIENCE MAN.—A few days since a man called on Capt. Kerns at East Portland and engaged to buy his crop of potatoes, and then went away. A day or two after, he came back, during the absence of Capt. Kerns, privately to look at the crop and to estimate how many it would have to buy. He represented to Mrs. Kerns, and the wife of the Captain's staff to row over to Portland to make some arrangements about [illegible]. Mrs. Kerns supposing it to be all right, consented to let him take the boat, and the man then went and took it, since which time neither owner nor boat has been seen or heard from. The fellow is [illegible] the man who has lately figured in other [illegible] of the country, in search of [illegible]. He bears a villainous look, but never pays a cent for anything himself again in the same place.

THE OREGON LIFE INSURANCE.—It is reported that [illegible] most of the [illegible] are yet to [illegible], are making arrangements to place an opposition [illegible] on the Willamette river, both above and [illegible] the falls. It is said they have already a steamer [illegible] the falls, and are taking the first steps toward [illegible] one above. Bills of lumber for a steamer have been given to one of the lumbering establishments up the river, as it is said. With the exception of the mean, no body is pleased with the present [illegible], and [illegible] anxious to know whether he has any backing or not. He really intends to invest in an opposition. The [illegible] matter at present [illegible] to rest on little more than rumor, though there may be [illegible] to [illegible] a very large stand at no [illegible] time.

A NEW TREASURER AT THE PORTLAND ACADEMY.—The Salem Record says: "Mr. T. H. Crandall has signed the [illegible] of Mr. T. H. Crandall has signed [illegible] the office of Mr. [illegible], and accepted a favorable offer from Prof Gatch, of Portland to act as his [illegible]. We had heard of this arrangement before, but not upon such authority as we thought would warrant the publication of it. We are still in the dark as to the time when the arrangement will go into effect. Mr. Crandall is a graduate of the Willamette University, a young man of excellent mind, high moral qualities, and a most thoroughly [illegible] teacher. Very few persons of his age have ever shown so many of the essential elements of [illegible] in the pupils of his class. We congratulate the [illegible] upon his acquisition to the corps of teachers.

[illegible] AT UMATILLA.—The Oregonian Press of the 23d says: "Nothing of interest has transpired in town [illegible] during the past two weeks. A few trains and [illegible] to leave, but [illegible] beyond the [illegible] driving to a close. A good retail trade is being done and merchants generally are well [illegible] with the past [illegible] season. Next spring will look much healthier, as there will be fewer [illegible] to stride the trade. [illegible] for although all have done a [illegible] able business there have been too many to [illegible] trade very profitably. [illegible] is there anything up the deep Columbia of that sort? If so, how much? To the [illegible] years, Bro. Brown, isn't the "creek" a little the bigger thing of the two?

It is said they have already a steamer [illegible] the falls, and are taking the first steps toward [illegible] one above. Bills of lumber for a steamer have been given to one of the lumbering establishments up the river, as it is said. With the exception of the mean, no body is pleased with the present [illegible], and [illegible] anxious to know whether he has any backing or not. He really intends to invest in an opposition. The [illegible] matter at present [illegible] to rest on little more than rumor, though there may be [illegible] to [illegible] a very large stand at no [illegible] time.

A NEW TREASURER AT THE PORTLAND ACADEMY.—The Salem Record says: "Mr. T. H. Crandall has signed the [illegible] of Mr. T. H. Crandall has signed [illegible] the office of Mr. [illegible], and accepted a favorable offer from Prof Gatch, of Portland to act as his [illegible]. We had heard of this arrangement before, but not upon such authority as we thought would warrant the publication of it. We are still in the dark as to the time when the arrangement will go into effect. Mr. Crandall is a graduate of the Willamette University, a young man of excellent mind, high moral qualities, and a most thoroughly [illegible] teacher. Very few persons of his age have ever shown so many of the essential elements of [illegible] in the pupils of his class. We congratulate the [illegible] upon his acquisition to the corps of teachers.

[illegible] AT UMATILLA.—The Oregonian Press of the 23d says: "Nothing of interest has transpired in town [illegible] during the past two weeks. A few trains and [illegible] to leave, but [illegible] beyond the [illegible] driving to a close. A good retail trade is being done and merchants generally are well [illegible] with the past [illegible] season. Next spring will look much healthier, as there will be fewer [illegible] to stride the trade. [illegible] for although all have done a [illegible] able business there have been too many to [illegible] trade very profitably. [illegible]

ARTIFICIAL ICE.—The London Mechanics' Magazine describes a new and very effective ice machine. It is simply an air pump fitted to a bottle. The bottle is half filled with water, and the pump is set to work. Air is first pumped out, and then the water rapidly evaporates. To complete the vacuum and increase the evaporation, the air and aqueous vapor pumped out is made to traverse a hollow cylinder containing sulphuric acid, which of course instantly absorbs the moisture. The evaporation is so rapid that the remaining water is quickly converted into a mass of ice. Four minutes pumping suffices two pints of ice, with an apparatus which only costs about fifty shillings sterling.

SKELETON OF A MASTODON FOUND.—The Virginia Enterprise, November 5th, says the skeleton of a mastodon, in an excellent state of preservation, has been discovered in Owen's Valley, about three miles from Fort Independence. The bones of the huge beast were found by a party of men who were engaged in digging a pit for a wheel to run an arastra, at the depth of ten or twelve feet, in a deposit of sand and gravel. By stretching out the bones of the leg along the ground it appeared that the animal when living must have been fifteen feet high.

The convention of homeopathic physicians at Boston, Wednesday, expressed itself in favor of a warm bath for sick headache.

BERMAN'S new Fall and Winter styles of Clothing has just arrived by the Montana, and will be opened to-day. All who have been waiting for the latest and best styles, can get them by calling at Berman's, corner of Front and Morrison.

SALE OF A HOMESTEAD AT AUCTION.—A. B. Richardson, auctioneer, will offer at auction at 10 o'clock to-day, block No. 116 in East Portland, which has on it a comfortable story and-a-half cottage—a good chance to buy a home probably on favorable terms. After this sale, Mr. Richardson will offer a large stock of groceries and some desirable furniture.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital: $500,000. Paid up capital, $100,000. H. M. DuRell, President. C. W. Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and Accounts on the principal places in Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Coin or Currency on this Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Oregon.

GOOD FOR OREGON.—Another source of revenue to the State has been created. We notice several shipments of Henley's Royal Balsam to California, and as soon as the bottles can be manufactured a large order will be filled from New York. The curative properties of this medicine are appreciated abroad as well as at home. See the certificates of several prominent citizens of the State on ourth page.

SHATTERED CONSTITUTIONS RESTORED by HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED BUCHU.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU and IMPROVED ROSE WASH cures secret and delicate disorders in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience and no exposure. It is pleasant in taste and odor, immediate in its action and free from all injurious properties.

DR. C. W. COOL

Has Returned to Portland, and can be found at his residence on

Third St., bet. Alder and Washington.

Those who desire FIRST-CLASS DENTAL SERVICES ought to well appreciate the fact in making a NEW AND IMPROVED VULCANITE PLATE; the nature of his improvement [illegible] in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold; it makes the plate twice as strong and one-third times thinner than the common vulcanite plate. It also prevents the acids of the mouth from roughing the plate, and from turning it black, which is a common occurrence. One-half of the common vulcanite plates turn black after being in use a short time, particularly where tobacco is used for smoking. His new style of plate admits of a very fine finish on the concave or palate surface. His office is the only place where such work can be had. The improvement is his own invention, for which he has made application to the United States Patent Office for a patent. He has been making this style of work for the last two and a half years, and has specimens of the work which can be seen at his residence and office on Third street. This work has given satisfaction in every case.

Price for upper teeth, $50; full set, upper and lower, $75 00. oct14tf

OREGONIANS should test the merits of DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. While it is highly palatable as a beverage, it is unequalled as a tonic and invigorator. In the pursuit of fortune at the mines, many persons are exposed to attacks of the digestive organs, and of various kinds of fever. It is the very article that has so long been in demand at the mines. Its daily use will restore the tone of a deranged stomach, impart fresh vitality to the digestive functions, and cheer the spirits. Yet the Bitters are the safest of all stimulants. Let the miner who is exposed to hot and dry, wet and cold, be certain to obtain a supply of the genuine Hostetter Bitter, and he will find it a certain safeguard to health.—Sold by Druggists and dealers everywhere.

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER.

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS!

At this period there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands alone, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines, and its sale is universal and immense. The demand for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the demand at home, and it has become known in these far off places by its merits.

FOR NON-RETENTION or INCONTINENCE of Urine, Irritation, Inflammation, or ulceration of the bladder or kidneys, diseases of the prostrate glands, stone in the bladder, calculus, gravel or brick dust deposits, and all diseases of the kidneys and dropsical swellings, USE HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU.

The Code of Honor—A Duel in Georgia.

Colonel Henry P. Farrow, an attorney of Atlanta, recently challenged Judge Hood, editor of the Rome (Ga.) Commercial, for terming him "cowardly and pusillanimous." The Judge replied to the cartel, saying the objectionable epithet was written by an associate, who was now absent from Rome. Colonel Farrow fiercely rejoined that no matter who wrote the article, the chief editor was responsible for it, and the Judge must fight or retract. The latter grew quite nervous about the Colonel's peremptory communications, and published a retraction, which the Colonel declared was satisfactory. In the meantime, however, the associate editor and author of the article, M. A. Nevin, had returned, and totally disapproved his senior's course. If the latter wouldn't fight he determined to reopen the quarrel himself, and he addressed Colonel Farrow one of the most singular letters on record. He says in this remarkable epistle:

"I, the associate editor of the above named paper, am only responsible for the 'Pusillanimous and cowardly man,' etc., and not the Judge, and to save my life I can find no conceivable objection to the language, unless that objection may consist in its rhetorical inaccuracy—'pusillanimous and cowardly' being rather synonymous terms. You remarked that it had been charged that cowardice and a mortal fear of bullets had driven you to take refuge in the arms of the niter bureau department. The correctness of the charge you neither attempted to palliate nor deny, but rather thought it an excellent piece of strategy on your part, illustrating the case with an anecdote, as usual, and ending with the triumphant explanation, 'I'm dumn glad that I am Pot-Ash Farrow.' The language of the unfortunate editorial is but the reflex of your own sentiments, and I am somewhat surprised that a recapitulation would so astound you."

The pugnacious associate editor, it says, has a new boy-baby and but one leg, two facts he alludes to as follows:

"Now, I am not altogether a fighting man, and you have already ascertained that you are not; he sir, you have a family, and so have I. I have but recently become the fortunate daddy of one of the finest boys in the ten Territories, and, if possible to avoid it, do not wish to take the chances of leaving him fatherless; yet if, when reply to this, you still insist, and Harris and Walker, your unerring references, will stand good for your character, why so let it be. I have already had the small matter of three duels in two of which I came off victorious, and in the third one only lost a leg; and though what I have not formed any particular attachment to duelling, yet whenever a man persists in forcing a fight I have always endeavored to accommodate him."

He concludes after this fashion:

"Pardon me one to say, in good sooth, my friend, that I think you are laboring under the delusion that you are a Vicksburg hero.

"Finally, if your voice is still for war, just bring along your implements, and the best hive for your own member. I scorn to take advantage of any man. Yours, very easy.

M. A. NEVIN,
Associate Editor Rome Commercial.

Colonel Farrow did not reply to this letter until [illegible] from the same source compelled him [illegible]. He declined fighting an associate editor on the ground that he was a [illegible] employé. He [illegible] the chief editor the responsible [illegible], and the chief editor had retreated. This was all that he would do. In addition he said:

"I have been informed by those who have seen you, and who know a thing of you, that from an [illegible] accident when quite a boy, you lost the use of your left leg; and that from that day to this you have gone upon crutches. For me to [illegible] word of you in your present condition that reputation which is due from one gentleman to another would justly [illegible]. Think, sir, for a moment, of the overwhelming and merited infamy which [illegible] come down from an outraged people on me, and upon my children after me, should I [illegible] and take the life of a crippled man; [illegible] why the people would be justified in [illegible] me. [illegible] the [illegible] of bring accused. No, sir, no waiver on your part can [illegible] you to stand before me a [illegible]. And I say to you in the most positive, [illegible] and unqualified language, that under no circumstance, for no language which it is [illegible] the one person to use toward another, should I be induced to commit so grave an error, to a mind [illegible] of this [illegible], so revolting [illegible], as to challenge to the field of honor one who is [illegible] and between [illegible].

North it soon replied to this (as he termed it,) [illegible] Harris and Walker. He [illegible] the Colonel's hypocrisy and [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] of the Rome Commercial. The Colonel replied that he [illegible] it. [illegible] to "the code" (fifth section second division, first chapter, Wilcox's) Nevin's friend [illegible] himself in his principal's stead.

It seems [illegible] to post a card in the following [illegible]:

"Know [illegible] that I am a cripple and must [illegible] below cruelty. To me to accept [illegible] with the code' as yourself, you must confess to [illegible] and Nevil are both one [illegible] man, and each composed a decrepit [illegible]. Yet, under your cobalt [illegible] of the code, you [illegible] not and would not [illegible] a gentleman being within the pale of [illegible]. Therefore the proper conduct [illegible] under the circumstances would be [illegible] and thereby [illegible] under any other [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
